

Community Service

By Marcus

It is important to do community service. Community service can benefit a lot of things. Winston Churchill once said, "We make a living by what we get, but we make a life by what we give." I like doing community service because it can help our environment, set a good example for people to follow you, and help people experiencing homelessness.

One way we can do community service is to help the environment. When we help the environment, we save animals' lives. If we coexist with nature, it will help the environment grow bigger and greener. Another way we can save the environment is by cleaning up trash and recycling properly. You can get rid of some pollution. Also, if you don't throw trash everywhere, there would be much less pollution and would be easier to clean up.

The next way you can help doing community service is by setting a good example for someone else to follow. Setting a good example will probably set an example for younger kids to follow. So if they follow your example, and you pick up trash, they will too. That will help the community.

Another way you can do community service is by helping people experiencing homelessness. You can make blessing bags and send them to them. You can also donate food to them. That would help them in spirit and physically. This would help the community grow in people and kindness. They would really appreciate it.

This is why helping the environment, setting a good example for others to follow, and helping people experiencing homelessness is important. I would do these things because they will help animals, people, and the environment thrive.
